About the Tour

Is there an Australian identity? What has formed it? How has it changed over time?

Through looking at both Indigenous and non-Indigenous art, this tour examines what it means to be Australian through its art and through the influence the unique Australian landscape has had on both the artist and the people. There is nothing like a personal interaction to spark the imagination. Whether you’re a seasoned artistic traveller or apprentice explorer, our tour guide will offer that extra insight and revealing glimpse into the artwork, the era and the artist.
